FEMA National Continuity Programs (NCP), Continuity of Operations Division develops and promulgates Federal Continuity Directives for the federal executive branch. The division also provides continuity guidance to state, territorial, tribal and local government jurisdictions and the private sector critical infrastructure owners and operators. NCP supports these requirements by providing continuity related planning and preparedness guidance, education and training through its headquarters staff, its 10 regional continuity managers, and Emergency Management Institute. NCP also plans, coordinates and participates in national, state, territorial, tribal and local level continuity tests, training sessions and exercises. FEMA regions may also assist in the coordination of continuity efforts between Federal, state, territorial, tribal, and local partners during continuity events.

Federal Executive Boards/Federal Executive Associations

Through the efforts of regional continuity managers, the national continuity outreach program extends FEMA’s resources to enhance continuity partnerships with the nation’s Federal Executive Boards (FEBs), Federal Executive Associations (FEAs), and Regional/State Continuity Working Groups (CWGs). By establishing working groups across the interagency community, that includes the FEBs, the FEAs, states, territories, tribes and local government jurisdictions; FEMA expands its outreach activities and provides direct assistance to government offices nationwide.
