

U.S. Virgin Islands– Severe Storms, Flooding, Rockslides, and Mudslides associated with Tropical Storm Tomas

FEMA-1949-DR

Declared November 24, 2010

On November 19, 2010, Governor John P. de Jongh, Jr. requested a major disaster declaration due to Tropical Storm Tomas during the period of November 8-12, 2010. The Governor requested a declaration for Individual Assistance, Public Assistance for the island of St. Croix and Hazard Mitigation for all islands in the Territory of the U.S. Virgin Islands. During the period of November 15-18, 2010, joint Federal and Territorial Preliminary Damage Assessments (PDAs) were conducted in the requested islands and are summarized below. PDAs estimate damages immediately after an event and are considered, along with several other factors, in determining whether a disaster is of such severity and magnitude that effective response is beyond the capabilities of the Territory and the affected local governments, and that Federal assistance is necessary.¹

On November 24, 2010, President Obama declared that a major disaster exists in the Territory of the U.S. Virgin Islands. This declaration made Public Assistance requested by the Governor available to the Territory and eligible local governments and certain private nonprofit organizations on a cost-sharing basis for emergency work and the repair or replacement of facilities damaged by Tropical Storm Tomas on the island of St. Croix. This declaration also made Hazard Mitigation Grant Program assistance requested by the Governor available for hazard mitigation measures for all islands in the Territory of the U.S. Virgin Islands.²

² When a Governor’s request for major disaster assistance under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, as amended (Stafford Act) is under review, a number of primary factors are considered to determine whether assistance is warranted. These factors are outlined in FEMA’s regulations (44 CFR § 206.48). The President has ultimate discretion and decision making authority to declare major disasters and emergencies under the Stafford Act (42 U.S.C. § 5170 and § 5191).

³ Degree of damage to impacted residences:

- Destroyed – total loss of structure, structure is not economically feasible to repair, or complete failure to major structural components (e.g., collapse of basement walls/foundation, walls or roof);
- Major Damage – substantial failure to structural elements of residence (e.g., walls, floors, foundation), or damage that will take more than 30 days to repair;
- Minor Damage – home is damaged and uninhabitable, but may be made habitable in short period of time with repairs; and
- Affected – some damage to the structure and contents, but still habitable.

⁴ By law, Federal disaster assistance cannot duplicate insurance coverage (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(5)).

⁵ Special populations, such as low-income, the elderly, or the unemployed may indicate a greater need for assistance (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(3)).

⁶ Ibid (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(3)).
