

Preliminary Damage Assessment Report

Washington – Wildfires FEMA-4759-DR

Declared February 15, 2024

On October 4, 2023, Governor Jay Inslee requested a major disaster declaration due to wildfires during the period of August 18-25, 2023. The Governor requested a declaration for Individual Assistance and debris removal and emergency protective measures (Categories A and B), including direct federal assistance under the Public Assistance program for Spokane County and Hazard Mitigation statewide. During the period of August 30 to October 11, 2023, joint federal, state, and local government Preliminary Damage Assessments (PDAs) were conducted in the requested areas and are summarized below. PDAs estimate damages immediately after an event and are considered, along with several other factors, in determining whether a disaster is of such severity and magnitude that effective response is beyond the capabilities of the state and the affected local governments, and that Federal assistance is necessary.¹

On February 15, 2024, President Biden declared that a major disaster exists in the State of Washington. This declaration made Individual Assistance requested by the Governor available to affected individuals and households in Spokane County. This declaration also made debris removal and emergency protective measures (Categories A and B), including direct federal assistance under the Public Assistance program available for Spokane County. Finally, this declaration made Hazard Mitigation Grant Program assistance requested by the Governor available for hazard mitigation measures statewide.²

² When a Governor’s request for major disaster assistance under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, as amended (Stafford Act) is under review, a number of primary factors are considered to determine whether assistance is warranted. These factors are outlined in FEMA’s regulations (44 CFR § 206.48). The President has ultimate discretion and decision making authority to declare major disasters and emergencies under the Stafford Act (42 U.S.C. § 5170 and § 5191).

³ Degree of damage to impacted residences:

- Destroyed – total loss of structure, structure is not economically feasible to repair, or complete failure to major structural components (e.g., collapse of basement walls/foundation, walls or roof);
- Major Damage – substantial failure to structural elements of residence (e.g., walls, floors, foundation), or damage that will take more than 30 days to repair;
- Minor Damage – home is damaged and uninhabitable, but may be made habitable in short period of time with repairs; and
- Affected – some damage to the structure and contents, but still habitable.

⁴ By law, Federal disaster assistance cannot duplicate insurance coverage. 42 U.S.C. § 5155 and 44 C.F.R. § 206.48(b)(5).

⁵ Special populations, such as low-income, the elderly, or the unemployed may indicate a greater need for assistance. 44 C.F.R. § 206.48(b)(3).

⁶ Ibid. 44 C.F.R. § 206.48(b)(3).
