

FEMA May Be Able to Help if Insurance Doesn't Cover Some Disaster Expenses

Release Date: febrero 2, 2021

BILOXI, Miss. – Homeowners and renters with losses from Hurricane Zeta in George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, and Stone counties should apply to FEMA for federal disaster assistance even if they have insurance.

FEMA can't duplicate insurance payments but it might be able to help with some expenses that aren't covered fully by insurance, or if an insurance settlement is delayed.

FEMA is contacting residents who have registered to remind them to update the agency on their insurance claim status.

FEMA may be able to provide grants in these circumstances:

- If you have received the settlement from the insurance company but you still have unmet needs.
- If you have exhausted the settlement for Additional Living Expenses (for loss of use) and you need disaster-related temporary housing.
- If your settlement is insufficient and does not cover disaster-related needs such as medical, dental and funeral costs, emergency home repairs and other disaster-related expenses.

If your insurance settlement has been delayed longer than 30 days from the time you filed a claim, you should contact FEMA to explain your situation. After providing the necessary documentation – the claim number, date applied, and an estimate of how long it will take to receive a settlement – you may qualify for an advance that would have to be repaid to FEMA once the insurance settlement is received.
