

RETURNING HOME AFTER LOS ANGELES COUNTY WILDFIRES

FAQ

Release Date: 08/20, 2025

Release Number:
FEMA Fact Sheet 003 –
DR-4856-CA

What are the steps to return home after a wildfire? The first step is to contact your local emergency management agency (EMA) to determine if you are eligible to return. The EMA will provide you with information on the status of your property and the area. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from the EMA. This permit will allow you to access your property and the area. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) if you are returning to a road that was affected by the wildfire. Caltrans will provide you with information on the status of the road and the area. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from Caltrans. This permit will allow you to access the road and the area. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) if you are returning to a residential area that was affected by the wildfire. CDPH will provide you with information on the status of the area and the health of the residents. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from CDPH. This permit will allow you to access the residential area and the health of the residents. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CAL FIRE) if you are returning to a residential area that was affected by the wildfire. CAL FIRE will provide you with information on the status of the area and the health of the residents. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from CAL FIRE. This permit will allow you to access the residential area and the health of the residents.

How do I know if I am eligible to return home?

You are eligible to return home if you have been cleared by your local EMA and the state of California. The EMA will provide you with information on the status of your property and the area. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from the EMA. This permit will allow you to access your property and the area. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) if you are returning to a road that was affected by the wildfire. Caltrans will provide you with information on the status of the road and the area. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from Caltrans. This permit will allow you to access the road and the area. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) if you are returning to a residential area that was affected by the wildfire. CDPH will provide you with information on the status of the area and the health of the residents. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from CDPH. This permit will allow you to access the residential area and the health of the residents. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CAL FIRE) if you are returning to a residential area that was affected by the wildfire. CAL FIRE will provide you with information on the status of the area and the health of the residents. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from CAL FIRE. This permit will allow you to access the residential area and the health of the residents.

Where can I find more information?

- Return Home After Wildfire
- Return Home After Wildfire
- Return Home After Wildfire | CAL FIRE

What are the steps to return home after a wildfire?

- The first step is to contact your local emergency management agency (EMA) to determine if you are eligible to return. The EMA will provide you with information on the status of your property and the area. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from the EMA. This permit will allow you to access your property and the area. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) if you are returning to a road that was affected by the wildfire. Caltrans will provide you with information on the status of the road and the area. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from Caltrans. This permit will allow you to access the road and the area. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) if you are returning to a residential area that was affected by the wildfire. CDPH will provide you with information on the status of the area and the health of the residents. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from CDPH. This permit will allow you to access the residential area and the health of the residents. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CAL FIRE) if you are returning to a residential area that was affected by the wildfire. CAL FIRE will provide you with information on the status of the area and the health of the residents. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from CAL FIRE. This permit will allow you to access the residential area and the health of the residents.
- The second step is to contact your local EMA to determine if you are eligible to return. The EMA will provide you with information on the status of your property and the area. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from the EMA. This permit will allow you to access your property and the area. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) if you are returning to a road that was affected by the wildfire. Caltrans will provide you with information on the status of the road and the area. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from Caltrans. This permit will allow you to access the road and the area. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) if you are returning to a residential area that was affected by the wildfire. CDPH will provide you with information on the status of the area and the health of the residents. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from CDPH. This permit will allow you to access the residential area and the health of the residents. You will also need to obtain a return permit from the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CAL FIRE) if you are returning to a residential area that was affected by the wildfire. CAL FIRE will provide you with information on the status of the area and the health of the residents. Once you are cleared to return, you will need to obtain a return permit from CAL FIRE. This permit will allow you to access the residential area and the health of the residents.

FEMA

Page 1 of 2

- ???? ??? ????? ?? FEMA ??????? ??????

09/08/2025