

April is National Financial Capability Month

Release Date: April 1, 2019

WASHINGTON - Throughout the month of April, FEMA, in partnership with the Financial Literacy and Education Commission (FLEC), is celebrating National Financial Capability Month. Personal financial planning helps individuals and families prepare for disasters both big and small.

Many people have experienced the challenges of rebuilding their lives after a disaster. In these stressful circumstances, disaster savings can help individuals, families, communities, businesses and organizations bounce back quicker and start the road to recovery.

The best way to prepare for a natural disaster is knowing the risks of where you live and saving for the unexpected. Here are a few tips to help you start, and strengthen, your emergency savings fund and budgeting:

- Prepare for the risks where you live. Personal financial planning helps families prepare for disasters both big and small.
- Create a rainy day fund. Consider saving for disasters by setting aside money for unexpected costs including hotel stays, food, gas and insurance deductibles.
- Check your insurance coverage. Having insurance for your apartment, home or business property is the best way to be sure you will have the necessary financial resources to help you repair, rebuild or replace whatever is damaged.

Have all the documents and digital copies you need to protect yourself after a disaster. Use the checklists in the Emergency Financial First Aid Kit (EFFAK) and see if you're missing anything.

Each week throughout April, FEMA's Ready Campaign is hosting social media events to talk about planning, budgeting, saving money for disasters and emergencies, and the importance of having insurance coverage.
