

FEMA Help is Still Available Through Late Registration

Release Date: Jan 2, 2022

San Juan, Puerto Rico –Survivors of the severe storm, floods and landslides that occurred on February 4 – 6, who were unable to apply for help with FEMA during the 60-day standard registration period, may still be considered for disaster assistance by submitting a late application.

To be considered, survivors must complete a registration and write a letter detailing the specific circumstances that prevented the survivor from registering for assistance within the normal application period. Justifying circumstances may include illness, hospitalization or disability of the applicant, death of an immediate family member or personal business travel.

The letter should include the survivor's name, registration number, disaster number, and the last four numbers of the applicant's social security number. Survivors must submit all related documents to support their explanation.

Survivors from the affected municipalities of Cataño, Dorado, Toa Baja, Vega Alta, and Vega Baja may visit a nearby temporary DRC to complete a registration and submit supporting documentation required for a late application. For additional information or to find the Disaster Recovery Center (DRC) nearest you, click on the FEMA DRC link: Fema.gov/drc.
