

Crisis Counseling Assistance is Available to LA County Wildfire Survivors

Release Date: Mas 4, 2025

LOS ANGELES – If you are feeling overwhelmed by emotions, stress, or hopelessness, you are not alone. Help is available for disaster survivors experiencing emotional distress following the wildfires.

The Crisis Counseling Assistance and Training Program is a federally funded program administered by FEMA which has been activated for disaster survivors in Los Angeles County. The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) is working with FEMA through an interagency agreement to provide support services assistance for those impacted by the fires.

If you or a loved one is experiencing mental health distress related to the wildfires, do not hesitate to reach out for mental health support and resources 24/7. Visit Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health or call the mental health helpline at 800-854-7771. The Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health does not discriminate on the basis of disability in the admission and access to its services, programs or activities. For questions regarding accessibility, please contact the ADA Coordinator at (213) 943-8120 or (213) 947-6837.
