

President Donald J. Trump Signs Emergency Declaration for South Carolina

Release Date: 9? 2, 2019

WASHINGTON -- FEMA announced that federal emergency aid has been made available to the state of South Carolina to supplement state, tribal and local response efforts due to the emergency conditions in the area affected by Hurricane Dorian beginning on August 31 and continuing.

The President's action authorizes FEMA to coordinate all disaster relief efforts which have the purpose of alleviating the hardship and suffering caused by the emergency on the local population, and to provide appropriate assistance for required emergency measures, authorized under Title V of the Stafford Act, to save lives and to protect property and public health and safety, and to lessen or avert the threat of a catastrophe.

Specifically, FEMA is authorized to identify, mobilize, and provide at its discretion, equipment and resources necessary to alleviate the impacts of the emergency. Assistance for emergency protective measures (Category B), limited to direct federal assistance under the Public Assistance program, will be provided at 75 percent federal funding for all 46 counties and the Catawba Indian Nation in the state.

Allan Jarvis has been named as the Federal Coordinating Officer for federal response operations in the affected area. Jarvis said additional designations may be made at a later date if requested by the state and warranted by the results of damage assessments.
