

Webinar presented by: David Schaad Field Operations Chief with FEMA Office of Disability Integration and Coordination

Utilizing Advisory Groups to develop integrated Emergency Management plans to meet the needs of the whole community

Date: August 6th
Time: 1pm-2:30pm EST

Overview

The Inclusive Emergency Management Webinar will stimulate discussion and thought about how emergency managers might affect disability inclusion by utilizing disability advisory groups across all phases of disasters including preparedness, response, recovery, mitigation and protection. The webinar is designed to help emergency managers at all levels identify gaps and will offer suggestions and best practices to move forward

Webinar Objectives

- Learn how Federal Regulations and Laws require access for all citizens in three primary areas - communication which includes accessible notification; physical access and; access to programs, goods and services and how this applied to emergency management plans.
- Discuss the model of advisory groups and how they have effectively been utilized to support planning at local and state level.
- Identify resources and community partners to assist in planning with and for adults and children with disabilities, and others with access and functional needs

Target Audience

- State and Local Emergency Planners
- Disability Organizations
- Voluntary Organizations
- Community Emergency Response Organizations
- Other interested Groups
