

Modernizing Public Warning Messaging

Dr. Dennis Mileti

Professor Emeritus,
University of Colorado Boulder

Dennis S. Mileti is professor emeritus at the University of Colorado Boulder where he served as Director of the Natural Hazards Center from 1994–2003, and as Chair of the Department of Sociology. He is the author of over 100 publications most of which discuss societal aspects of hazards and disasters. His book Disasters by Design summarized knowledge in all fields of science and engineering regarding natural hazards and disasters, and made recommendations for shifts in national policies and programs. Dennis has had the opportunity to work on a variety of exciting hazards-related projects over the years including providing oversight to the U.S. Army Corps' investigation of why the levees failed during Hurricane Katrina and ensuing societal impacts for which he was awarded the U.S. Army's Civilian Medal of Honor; and he designed and oversaw NIST's congressional study of evacuation of the World Trade Center towers on 9/11. He has chaired the Committee on Disasters in the National Research Council of the National Academies, and the Board of Visitors to FEMA's Emergency Management Institute. Dennis also served as a California Seismic Safety Commissioner, and he has worked as a consultant in the private, public, and legal sectors in matters related to emergency management and public risk communication.
