

Understanding the Value of Insurance

Sean Kevelighan

Chief Executive Officer,
Insurance Information Institute

Sean Kevelighan joined the Insurance Information Institute as President and Chief Executive Officer in 2016. Previously, he worked for several private sector companies, including Citigroup, Inc., as Head of Strategic Communications for its Global Consumer Banking business; and the Zurich Insurance Group, as Head of Group Media Relations in North America, Head of Government and Industry Affairs for North America, and most recently as Group Head of Public Affairs.

Kevelighan has advised multinational and FORTUNE 100 corporate clients on policy issue management programs, corporate reputation campaigns, and crisis communications. He served in various public sector posts. As a political appointee in the administration of President George W. Bush, he served first in the Department of Treasury as a spokesperson for economic issues, and eventually became Senior Advisor for the Office of Tax Policy. He was also the Press Secretary for the White House Office of Management and Budget, and has worked on Capitol Hill, serving on the staff of members of Congress. Sean is a graduate of the University of Colorado at Boulder.