Bob -

I got your voicemail, thanks for the update. Also, I rechecked my email to see if I'd missed any comments - there was one sent on the 23rd, I have the answer and will post it this afternoon.

Here's the comment and answer:

LES commented on As Mercy Rebuilds
Will the new hospital include a tornado safe room for patients?

Ans:

The new facility will have safe zones. So it will be more than just a room or two, but sections of the building designated as safe zones and protected from glass, exterior and etc. Also designated safe stairwells that will be strengthened for evacuating if needed.

Bob -

Just one so far and it's been posted to the website - it came in last weekend:

Stephanie Munson says:

February 4, 2012 at 10:46 am God bless you for all that you are doing and have done for Joplin. Having grown up in Miami St. John's cared for many of my friends and family. I no longer live in the area but a part of my heart will always belong there.

David,

Have we received any comments on EA via the web site?

Thank you,

Bob

Bob,

Who's receiving the public comments?

All,

Great news from FEMA. We now just need to see comments made by public, if any, and then complete any required documentation for Final EA (two bound copies at this point).

Best regards,

Bob

Bob,

Our attorneys have concurred with the EA. No comments or changes, congrats...now just until March 3rd...

Thanks for all your work on this,
