

New Jersey - Remnants of Tropical Storm Lee FEMA-4039-DR

Declared October 14, 2011

On September 28, 2011, Acting Governor Kim Guadagno requested a major disaster declaration due to Remnants of Tropical Storm Lee during the period of September 6-11, 2011. The Acting Governor requested a declaration for Public Assistance for five counties and Hazard Mitigation statewide. On October 6, 2011, Governor Chris Christie amended the request for a major disaster declaration. The Governor requested Public Assistance for seven additional counties. During the period of September 16-27, 2011, joint federal, state, and local government Preliminary Damage Assessments (PDAs) were conducted in the requested counties and are summarized below. PDAs estimate damages immediately after an event and are considered, along with several other factors, in determining whether a disaster is of such severity and magnitude that effective response is beyond the capabilities of the state and the affected local governments, and that Federal assistance is necessary.¹

On October 14, 2011, President Obama declared that a major disaster exists in the State of New Jersey. This declaration made Public Assistance requested by the Acting Governor and Governor available to state and eligible local governments and certain private nonprofit organizations on a cost-sharing basis for emergency work and the repair or replacement of facilities damaged by the Remnants of Tropical Storm Lee in Hunterdon, Mercer, Passaic, Sussex, and Warren Counties. This declaration also made Hazard Mitigation Grant Program assistance requested by the Acting Governor and Governor available for hazard mitigation measures statewide.²

² When a Governor's request for major disaster assistance under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, as amended (Stafford Act) is under review, a number of primary factors are considered to determine whether assistance is warranted. These factors are outlined in FEMA's regulations (44 CFR § 206.48). The President has ultimate discretion and decision making authority to declare major disasters and emergencies under the Stafford Act (42 U.S.C. § 5170 and § 5191).

³ Degree of damage to impacted residences:

- Destroyed – total loss of structure, structure is not economically feasible to repair, or complete failure to major structural components (e.g., collapse of basement walls/foundation, walls or roof);
- Major Damage – substantial failure to structural elements of residence (e.g., walls, floors, foundation), or damage that will take more than 30 days to repair;
- Minor Damage – home is damaged and uninhabitable, but may be made habitable in short period of time with repairs; and
- Affected – some damage to the structure and contents, but still habitable.

⁴ By law, Federal disaster assistance cannot duplicate insurance coverage (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(5)).

⁵ Special populations, such as low-income, the elderly, or the unemployed may indicate a greater need for assistance (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(3)).

⁶ Ibid (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(3)).
