

Friends, Colleagues,

I don't typically send out "reminder" type emails but many of you have asked again about some of these topics. So, for your convenience, in one email, here are reminder updates on our PSR Contact Information, National Disaster Recovery Program Database, ShakeOut, NLE 11, and FEMA Regions. I also wanted to let you know that I will be out of the office and not connected to blackberry April 2-11 on personal vacation. Jeanie Moore, cc line, 202-646-1966, will be Acting Director during that time. Take care. I look forward to catching up soon. - Dan

The National Disaster Recovery Program Database - The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has created a web-based tool, known as the National Disaster Recovery Program Database (NDRPD), which will provide data on a range of programs from all levels of government along with the private and non-profit sectors to help communities rebuild after a disaster. If your organization offers programs that can help communities recover and rebuild after a disaster and you would like for those programs to be listed in the online National Disaster Recovery Program Database, or would like to be granted rights to enter and manage your programs information on the site, please contact NDHTF@dhs.gov. The database is available on the publicly accessible FEMA National Disaster Housing Strategy Resource Center Web site at <http://www.fema.gov/emergency/disasterhousing/>.
