

FEMA Tarps and USACE Blue Roofs Aid in Protecting Homes From Further Damage

Release Date: October 19, 2017

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico – The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the United States Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) are providing roof repair options for Puerto Rican homeowners to protect their homes from further damage caused by wind and rain.

Operation Blue Roof, managed by USACE, provides a temporary covering of reinforced blue plastic sheeting using strips of wood secured to the roof with nails or screws to help reduce further damage to property until permanent repairs can be made. In order to be considered for this program, a homeowner/landlord must legally agree to allow the USACE contractors access to the property by signing a Right of Entry (ROE) form. Blue Roofs are designed to last for 30 days.

In addition, FEMA has blue tarps, often referred to as self-help tarps, available throughout local municipalities that homeowners can pick up to help temporarily cover contents of damaged homes until permanent repairs can be made. FEMA tarps are large, loose-fitting sheets of waterproof material that can be tied to structures with grommets. The blue tarps are free of charge. The homeowner is responsible for the installation of the self-help tarps.

Residents that choose to use a self-help tarp may still be eligible for Operation Blue Roof, and can still register for other forms of FEMA assistance.

To find out more about these temporary roofing options, residents may contact their local municipality, call 1-888-ROOF-BLU (1-888-766-3258) or visit http://www.sad.usace.army.mil/bluroof_espanol/ (<http://www.sad.usace.army.mil/BlueRoof/>) to find a location where right of Entry (ROE) forms are being collected.

Members of recon team 4 with the San Juan Red Cross help put up tarps to hurricane survivors

FEMA

Page 1 of 2

###

FEMA's mission is to support our citizens and first responders to ensure that as a nation we work together to build, sustain, and improve our capability to prepare for, protect against, respond to, recover from, and mitigate all hazards.

Disaster recovery assistance is available without regard to race, color, religion, nationality, sex, age, disability, English proficiency or economic status. If you or someone you know has been discriminated against, call FEMA toll-free at 800-621-3362 (voice, 711/VRS - Video Relay Service)

(TTY: 800-462-7585). Multilingual operators are available (press 2 for Spanish).

The SBA is the federal government's primary source of money for the long-term rebuilding of disaster-damaged property. SBA helps businesses of all sizes, private non-profit organizations, homeowners and renters, which can cover the cost of replacing lost or disaster-damaged real estate and personal property. These disaster loans cover losses not fully compensated by insurance or other recoveries and do not duplicate benefits of other agencies or organizations.

Join the conversation with FEMA on social media. Follow us at:

www.fema.gov/hurricane-maria

www.facebook.com/femapuertorico

www.twitter.com/femaregion2

Get updated information and help us tell your story. The social media links provided are for reference only. FEMA does not endorse any non-government websites, companies or applications.

FEMA

Page 2 of 2