

FEMA Approves Historic Amount of 552 Project Obligations

Release Date: May 5, 2020

This is a record number of obligations during a single month since the onset of the disaster, which includes 458 permanent work projects for municipalities

GUAYNABO, Puerto Rico – FEMA and the Central Office for Recovery, Reconstruction and Resilience, or COR3, obligated roughly $95.4 million for 552 projects during April – more than the total number of projects approved between the months of January and September 2019 combined. Municipalities across the island received the bulk of these obligations for a total of 458 permanent work projects.

About $38.4 million of these funds were obligated during the last week of the month for 155 projects related to the recovery and reconstruction of Puerto Rico due to Hurricane María. As social distancing and self-quarantine measures continue on the island; and residents in the south are faced with new challenges related to the earthquakes that occurred during the weekend, the agency's focus remains on moving recovery forward.

“In coordination with COR3, we set some lofty project obligation goals and we are not only reaching them, we are surpassing them. The commitment of the FEMA team on the island is unwavering, even as we continue to face new challenges along the way,” said Federal Disaster Recovery Coordinator for Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands, Alex Amparo.

The latest grants obligated are as follows:

- Over $21.2 million for repairs to public buildings and equipment.
- Over $7 million for repairs to roads and bridges.
- Nearly $5.1 million for repairs to parks and recreational facilities.
- Over $3.6 million for emergency protective measures.
- Nearly $847,000 for debris removal.
- Over $297,000 for water control facilities.
- Nearly $203,000 to municipalities and government agencies for administrative costs.
- Over $107,000 for public utilities.

“We have exceeded a thousand federal obligations for permanent work projects in the past 10 months. Once again, we thank FEMA for the support provided to Puerto Rico during this reconstruction phase. The collaboration spirit in the work that we are doing has been key in moving forward and the people of Puerto Rico will be most benefited of the results,” said the Executive Director of the Central Office for Recovery, Reconstruction and Resiliency, Ottmar Chavez Piñero.

The last week of this record-breaking month in obligations includes nearly $500,000 to the municipality of Coamo for repairs to several municipal streets, like asphalt resurfacing and concrete gutter replacement. These repairs will benefit the 400 families living in the urbanizations of Paraíso de Coamo, Mansiones de Coamo and Fuentes de Coamo. To date, nearly $7.2 million has been obligated for 41 permanent work projects in Coamo.

“Puerto Rico is experiencing difficult times, including facing a pandemic, but the municipality of Coamo and FEMA have continued developing reconstruction projects related to Hurricane María and today we announce that funding was obligated for these projects. These are just some of the many others that have been approved previously,” said the mayor of Coamo, Juan Carlos García Padilla.

The weekly obligations also include over $49,000 for repairs to the Yolanda Guerrero Cultural Center located in Barrio Pueblo in the municipality of Guaynabo. Besides being used for a variety of communal activities, the center also served as the FEMA Disaster Recovery Center during the response and well into the recovery of Hurricane María. Thousands of Guaynabo residents and other survivors frequented the center for disaster assistance from FEMA and other federal agencies and nonprofits.

“With these funds we will perform the permanent improvements to this facility that has been the meeting place for cultural, educational and entertainment events, as well as during times when it has served as a location to offer support services to families, as with Hurricane Maria,” said the mayor of Guaynabo, Ángel A. Pérez Otero.

Funding for permanent work includes projects like roads, bridges, water control, buildings and equipment, utilities and park and recreation facilities as authorized under Section 406 of the Robert T. Stafford Act. Emergency protective measures are actions taken to eliminate or lessen immediate threats either to lives, public health or safety, or significant additional damage to public or private property in a cost-effective manner.

FEMA works with COR3 through the agency’s Public Assistance program to obligate recovery funds to private nonprofit organizations, municipalities and agencies of the Government of Puerto Rico for expenses related to hurricanes Irma and María. To date, over $6.6 billion has been approved for Puerto Rico under FEMA’s Public Assistance program.
