

FEMA Federal Assistance After Hurricane Ida Tops $23.5 Million

Release Date: September 17, 2021

More than 42,000 New Jersey residents have registered for FEMA assistance. FEMA has approved more than $11.7 million to more than 2,700 families in New Jersey including:

- More than $10.8 million in Housing Assistance grants for repairs to primary residences or for rental of temporary housing.
- More than $950,000 for grants to repair or replace damaged personal property or to pay for disaster-related necessary expenses and other serious needs.

Other assistance provided also includes:

- More than $9.8 million in flood insurance claims in New Jersey. More than 6,000 claims have been paid.
- More than $1.9 million in low-interest disaster loans provided to 56 survivors through the U.S. Small Business Administration.

There are currently eight Disaster Recovery Centers open in New Jersey where survivors can speak to representatives from FEMA's Individuals and Households program, FEMA's Hazard Mitigation program, and Small Business Administration loan programs, to get answers to questions about written correspondence and get literature about repairs and rebuilding to make homes disaster resistant. These locations can be found on the FEMA app or online at <https://egateway.fema.gov/ESF6/DRCLocator>.

A total of 17 FEMA Disaster Survivor Assistance teams and two FEMA Corps teams are helping survivors in 11 counties register for assistance, identify potential needs, and make connections with local, state, federal and voluntary agencies with the resources to assist them.

Individuals in Bergen, Essex, Gloucester, Hudson, Hunterdon, Mercer, Middlesex, Morris, Passaic, Somerset and Union counties are eligible to apply for disaster assistance.
