

FEMA May Contact You by Text To Schedule Inspection

Release Date: August 6, 2024

FRANKFORT, Ky. – If you applied for FEMA assistance following the May 21-27 storms, straight-line winds, tornadoes, landslides and mudslides, FEMA may be trying to reach you regarding your inspection. The agency will first try calling you to make an appointment, but if you do not answer, you may receive a text message from FEMA.

Please be aware that these calls and texts may come from unfamiliar area codes and phone numbers or show no caller ID. It is important to answer phone calls and respond to texts from FEMA, even if you do not recognize the phone number.

To identify legitimate FEMA staff calling or texting you, please remember the following:

- FEMA representatives never charge applicants for disaster assistance, inspections or help in filling out applications.
- Only FEMA knows your nine-digit application number.
- Don't believe anyone who promises a disaster grant in return for payment.
- Don't give your banking information to a person claiming to be a FEMA housing inspector. FEMA inspectors are never authorized to collect your personal financial information.
- You can call the FEMA Helpline at 800-621-3362 to verify if this call or text is from a FEMA-assigned inspector.

As FEMA is trying to connect with you in many ways, you should be alert to scam artists and other criminals who may be trying to steal your identity. In some cases, thieves try to apply for FEMA assistance using names, addresses and Social Security numbers they have stolen from survivors.

If a FEMA Inspector comes to your home and you did not submit a FEMA application, your information may have been used without your knowledge to create a FEMA application. If so, please inform the inspector that you did not apply for FEMA assistance, so the inspector can submit a request to stop further processing of the application.
