

Virginia - Earthquake FEMA-4042-DR

Declared November 4, 2011

On September 20, 2011, Governor Robert F. McDonnell requested a major disaster declaration due to an earthquake. The Governor requested a declaration for Individual Assistance for Louisa County and Hazard Mitigation for the entire commonwealth. On October 7, 2011, Governor McDonnell was notified that his request was denied. On October 28, 2011, Governor McDonnell appealed the denial of his request for a major disaster declaration during the period of August 23 to October 25, 2011. During the period of October 14-16, 2011, two additional joint federal, commonwealth, and local government Preliminary Damage Assessments (PDAs) were conducted in the requested county and are summarized below. PDAs estimate damages immediately after an event and are considered, along with several other factors, in determining whether a disaster is of such severity and magnitude that effective response is beyond the capabilities of the commonwealth and the affected local governments, and that Federal assistance is necessary.¹

On November 4, 2011, President Obama declared that a major disaster exists in the Commonwealth of Virginia. This declaration made Individual Assistance requested by the Governor available to affected individuals and households in Louisa County. This declaration also made Hazard Mitigation Grant Program assistance requested by the Governor available for hazard mitigation measures for the entire commonwealth.²

² When a Governor's request for major disaster assistance under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, as amended (Stafford Act) is under review, a number of primary factors are considered to determine whether assistance is warranted. These factors are outlined in FEMA's regulations (44 CFR § 206.48). The President has ultimate discretion and decision making authority to declare major disasters and emergencies under the Stafford Act (42 U.S.C. § 5170 and § 5191).

³ Degree of damage to impacted residences:

- Destroyed – total loss of structure, structure is not economically feasible to repair, or complete failure to major structural components (e.g., collapse of basement walls/foundation, walls or roof);
- Major Damage – substantial failure to structural elements of residence (e.g., walls, floors, foundation), or damage that will take more than 30 days to repair;
- Minor Damage – home is damaged and uninhabitable, but may be made habitable in short period of time with repairs; and
- Affected – some damage to the structure and contents, but still habitable.

⁴ By law, Federal disaster assistance cannot duplicate insurance coverage (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(5)).

⁵ Special populations, such as low-income, the elderly, or the unemployed may indicate a greater need for assistance (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(3)).

⁶ Ibid (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(3)).
